Tax Revenue: Upland Third

Upland received the third highest amount of tax revenue in the December distribution of taxes of all the West End cities. County government received $548,865, Ontario led the West End cities with $155,076 compared with $132,911 for Montclair, $74,844 for Upland, $60,083 for Fontana and $41,297 for Chino.

John W. Lynch, chairman of the state board of equalization, announced that in the December distribution of the one quarter one percent sales and use tax for payment to county local transportation funds, San Bernardino County received $552,236. A total $80 million was distributed in the December program. This includes $50.3 million for cities, $10.4 million for counties and $16.3 million for transportation funds.

The current five percent sales tax will be increased to six percent in June as a result of the new tax reform bill passed by the legislature. Lynch said the increase will not result in more revenue for cities and counties because the additional money is earmarked for the state.

Rodrigues-- On New Job

John H. Rodrigues, former superintendent of the Upland School District, has assumed duties as associate deputy commissioner for school systems in the federal office of Education, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Rodriguez is assistant to Duane J. Matthews, who has responsibility for administration of programs in elementary and secondary education, education of the handicapped and equal opportunity education programs.

In the Upland district, where he served from September 1970 to September 1972, Rodrigues headed an 11-school operation with 350 employees. Earlier, he was superintendent of the Perris School District and principal of Watts, Myers and Dunn elementary school in Rialto.

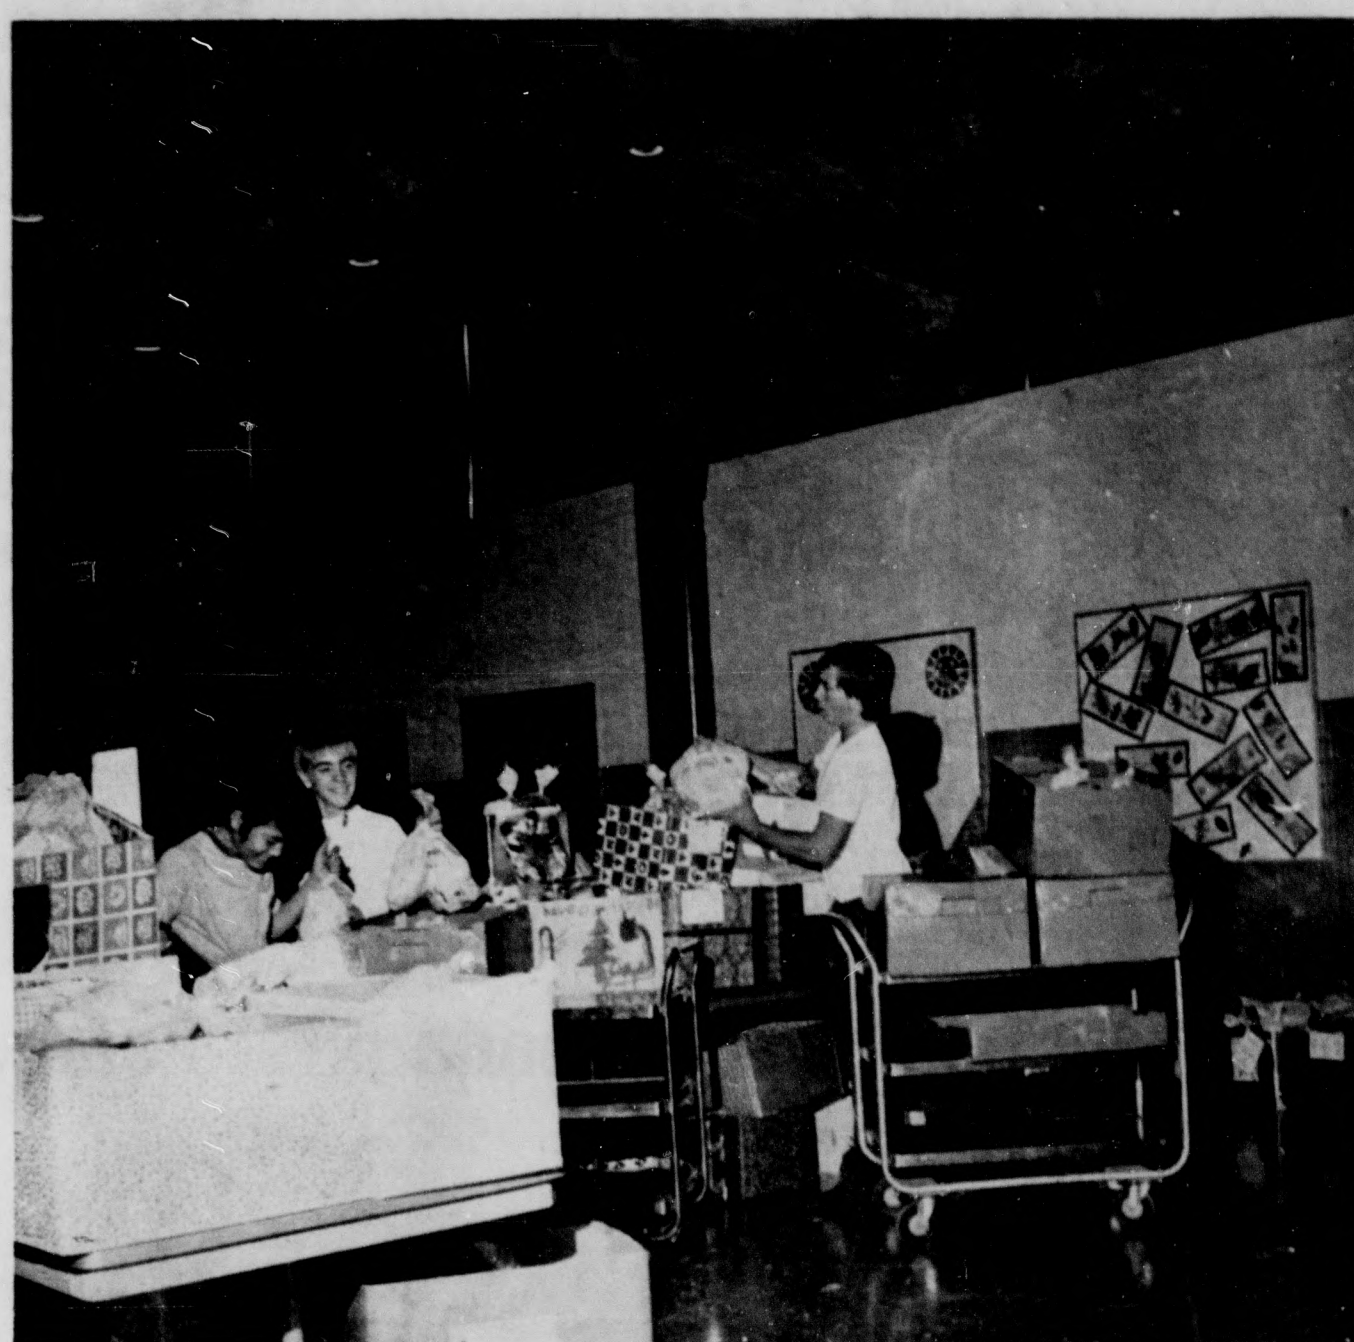

Smog Monitoring Station Here Soon

According to Donald M. Thomas, air pollution control officer for San Bernardino county, also known as "Mr. Smog of San Bernardino County," Upland will have a smog monitoring station within the next couple months.

Gerry Brown, a technician for APCD, reported that technical equipment is being hooked up now in the Recreation Hall building (old fire station) located at 155 E. "D" St., Upland. The air monitoring stations in Chino and Ontario are being deactivated and Upland's new station will provide situation reports to all of the West End of the county.

Brown explained that the readings from the Upland monitoring station will be automatically transmitted by telemeter system to the district office in San Bernardino where the data will be analyzed and timely situation reports will be given to all areas within the county. When the station's operating fully, Upland will also have an automatic answering system whereby daily smog predictions will be given by dialing a certain phone number.

When asked when a smog monitoring station would be installed in the foothills north of Upland, Thomas replied that data gathered by the University of California, Riverside, from a station on 24th St. pertaining to pollutants on citrus crops which was active last summer was still being analyzed but that if it was de-

CHRISTMAS BASKET PACKING -- School service club members and scouts all joined in last week to help Foothill PTA Council pack boxes of food to be given to needy families for Christmas dinner.

Upland Band--Hawaii Bound

Members of the Upland Highlanders High School Band can look forward to a springtime visit to the tropical playland of Hawaii.

Official permission to participate in the Hawaiian Festival of Music, Symphonic and Marching Bands was granted to the Highlander Band by the Chaffey Union High School District Board of Trustees last week.

The trip will be made at no expense to the district. E.J. Rosenbauer, president of the Highlanders Band Booster Club, told the board the band will attend the first scheduled session of the festival April 16 through 23 if openings remain. Otherwise, it will attend the April 23-30 session.

At least 150 students plan to attend, Rosenbauer said, and maybe as many as 185 if the entire drill team goes. He said the cost of attending the event, including air fare, motor transportation on the island, food, lodging and a one-day tour, will amount to $305 per person.

Rosenbauer said that student's parents are financing their children's trips. Money for the remainder of the students will be raised by band booster projects he said. The booster club will provide adult supervision for the trip.

Commission Member Named

William A. Campbell, 525 W. 21st St., Upland, was appointed by the Upland City Council at its last meeting to fill the unexpired term of June Alexis on the Architectural Commission.

Campbell is a four year resident of Upland and a general contractor. He is a native of California, he studied landscaping at Pierce College.

New Civic Center-- Top Priority Here

By PATRICIA REID
Of The News Staff

Completion of the Civic Center project won top priority in the city's list of projects to receive federal revenue sharing money when the Upland City Council met recently as a Finance and Budget committee to consider how funds would be spent.

A plan calling for Upland to use 68 percent of its 1972 federal revenue sharing money ($113,700 of $166,700) for development of the civic center, and a similar sum next year, was approved with strong objections by Councilman Harold Ballin. The committee approved the planned expenditures for the remainder of this year on a 3-1 vote (Councilman George Gibson was absent) and accepted City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder's five-year plan for revenue sharing funds as a guideline. The only stipulation on the decision was that the appropriations for the civic center will be subject to the recommendation of the Mayor's Advisory Committee.

Of the remaining money, $36,800 will go to purchase a tree trimming tower truck and equipment plus $16,200 for labor to operate the equipment. In 1973 $112,300 will go for construction of the civic center while $10,000 is slated for relocating the police dispatch room and redesigning that building's electrical system, $1,400 for equipment for the city's new recreation building and $43,000 to add five elements to the city's general plan. (If the council decides against the added general plan elements, the money would go to the civic center project.)

A total of $833,500 includes the projected funds from revenue sharing for a five year period. Upland is expected to receive $166,700 each year.

In 1974, $15,000 will be spent for a brush fire truck, $9,700 for removal of the vault in the police building and installing a classroom there, $58,000 for a five-acre park site at 11th St. and Benson Ave., $18,000 for library books, shelves and drapes, $20,000 for a softball diamond and lights, $17,000 for a street sweeper and $29,000 for a sanitary land fill and future park site.

In 1975, $20,000 will be spent for designing an addition to the police station, $68,000 will be used to build a west side fire station and $78,700 for another disposal site.

In 1976, $64,700 will be used for park sites on the east side of the city, $62,000 for a fire pumper, $20,000 for park development, $10,000 for a study of the older portion of the city.

Ballin was the only Councilman to attack the plan and indicated he wanted to see at least a third of the money go for lowering the city tax rate, a third for acquisition of park sites and the rest for the tree equipment and other current needs. He seriously questioned the assumption that the civic center project was the city's most vitally needed social service. "The entire country feels revenue sharing was designed for tax relief. I don't see one dime in there (five-year plan) for tax relief," Ballin said at the committee meeting.

The following is a table of Recommended Appropriations spread over five years: $833,500 total funds

1. Library	$18,000	2.1 percent
2. Recreation	$21,400	2.6 percent
3. Police	$39,700	4.8 percent
4. Planning	$63,000	7.6 "
5. Parks	$142,700	17.1 "
6. Fire	$145,000	17.4 "
7. Public Works	$177,000	21.3 "
8. Civic Center	$266,000	27.1 "
	$833,500	100 percent

Upland Chamber of Commerce spokesman Bob Sherwood addressed the committee and indicated the Council's decision to devote most of the first two years of revenue sharing money to the Civic Center project only partially agrees with the chamber's top priorities. Park acquisition and development was the chamber's top priority, then followed the civic center and property tax relief.

Signs Are 'Go' On Recreation Building

The weather's been cooperative and all signs are "go" on Upland's new $100,000 recreation building. Fred Taunton, recreation director, looks forward to having dedication ceremonies in late February. He reported that the roof is now on and exterior lath is being applied to the facility in Magnolia Park, located on 15th St., and San Antonio.

C and R Construction Co., of Upland was the lowest of seven bidders on the project and they began construction in mid-September. The recreation building, the city's first totally new recreation building, will feature a multi-purpose lounge and assembly room, in addition to a kitchen with facilities to serve 300, offices and restrooms. There will be a two-entrance parking lot which will hold about 175 cars.

Local citizens and the Youth Advisory Committee selected the site on the basis of a 19 point criteria which emphasized cost, centrality, need, transportation, availability and population. The members of the Youth Advisory Committee will be the official hosts and hostesses at the building's dedication day ceremonies.

Taunton said the large 40 x 80 foot assembly room will be used for a variety of purposes, ranging from instructional classes to spaghetti dinners and pancake breakfasts. He hopes to organize a teenage program which will include a casual "drop-in center" and teen dances. The emphasis however, is that the recreation building is for everyone of all ages and will be used in a multitude of different ways. The building will probably also be open to the public during non-recreational hours for functions such as wedding receptions and club meetings also.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSING WELL -- Upland Recreation Director Fred Taunton reports that work's going well at the new community Recreation Building being constructed in Magnolia Park. He anticipates a late February dedication of the new facility.

Etiwanda's Gym Means Expanded Recreation Program

Etiwandans can look forward to an expanded community recreation program now that the long-awaited school gymnasium is completed.

Official dedication ceremonies took place last Thursday evening. A semi-professional gymnastics team gave a gymnastics and trampoline demonstration using new equipment in the gym. Southern California Edison Co., provided refreshments since the building is an "all electric" gymnasium.

Carleton P. Lightfoot, superintendent of the Etiwanda School District, reported that construction of the new 12,500 square foot facility began last May. It contains three classrooms, a wrestling room with lots of very modern weight-lifting equipment, a modern dance room and an exercise room. It seats approximately 550 persons on bleachers of five sections. The ceiling is 28 feet high and the modern dance room has moveable partitions so that it may be utilized as a stage area for school graduations or other larger assembly gatherings.

School recreation director Rick Von Kleist announced the new schedule of community recreation programs. He said that after the beginning of the year a Ladies Modern Dance class will be given Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. and Friday from 7-9 p.m. A Karate Class is also scheduled for Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. and Thursday from 7-9 p.m. The Gymnasium located at 6925 Etiwanda Ave., in Etiwanda is open from 4:00 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday nights. On Saturdays it's open to the public from 9:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. The program schedule is as follows:

Tuesday 4-6:30 p.m. Weight training, wrestling, youth basketball
7-9 p.m. Adult Basketball and volleyball

Wednesday 4:00-6:30 p.m. Weight training, wrestling, Youth Basketball

7-9 p.m. Family Night - Basketball, volleyball, ladies exercise in stage area of weight room

Thursday 4:00-6:30 Weight training-wrestling, Youth Basketball

7:00-9:30 Adult basketball-volleyball

Friday 4-6 p.m. Weight training, wrestling, youth basketball
7-9 p.m. Adult Basketball-Volleyball, Ladies open exercise stage area and weight room

On Saturdays the gym is open from 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. with open supervised recreation available to the public. It's also open from 9-5 during the holiday season.

Upland: A Status Report

From City Manager
Elwin "Pinky" Alder

Upon request Upland City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder consented to take a look over the highlights of 1972 in the City of Upland and to make an "educated guess estimate" of what city residents may look forward to in the new year approaching.

From the City Manager:
THE YEAR IN A NUTSHELL
Office of the City Manager
UPLAND - 1972

A joint powers authority was created, together with the Cities of Claremont and Montclair, to provide recreation area and facilities to serve the Arbol Verde sector of the three cities. A park site was made available, on a 10-year lease, by Claremont Colleges. Through contributions of the three cities, a park has been developed on this property with play equipment and space for athletic endeavors.

Ten acres of citrus groves which are future park sites in the City were acquired at no cost to the citizens through an exchange of property with the San Antonio Community Hospital. Some years ago a lease agreement had been consummated with the hospital for their use of City-owned property adjoining the hospital as a parking lot. The public interest appeared best served by making permanent use of that area for hospital parking and acquisition of other areas for neighborhood parks as a trade.

The City cooperated with the Upland Chamber of Commerce in holding two "flea markets" in Memorial Park. The first such activity was held in March and proved so popular and successful that a second "flea market" was held in the fall at the same location.

Improvements were made in San Antonio Park to serve the increasing Little League baseball activities. A new snack bar and restrooms were built by the Foothill Little League.

Recreation facilities in the City were augmented during the year by installation of a private tennis club on the north side of 15th Street east of Benson Avenue. The club fits well with the General Plan for that area as it extends the existing "green belt" northerly. A large privately owned miniature golf course was opened for use in mid-1972. Two outdoor and one indoor courses are available at the site.

Additional sources of revenue have been made available to the City through Revenue Sharing by the Federal Government and sales tax on gasoline. These two sources have the effect of reducing future burdens on property taxpayers. The City received the first increment of Revenue Sharing within the closing days of 1971. Plans for beneficial use of the first year's "shared revenue" have been approved by the City Council.

A significant amount of action was taken during 1972 attempting to mitigate the problem of heavy truck use of Euclid Avenue. Alternate routes were studied, many meetings were held with City and State legislators and administrative personnel and an alternate truck route was proposed to eliminate heavy truck traffic north of 16th Street on Euclid Avenue; however, at year's end, the perennial problem had not yet been resolved.

The City of Upland was notified that it had been a second place winner in the state wide safety contest, which was a indication of real safety consciousness by all employees during the year. Additionally, this results in a monetary saving to the City as the workmen's compensation insurance premium is reduced in keeping with the paucity of claims.

In keeping with sentiment expressed by many Uplanders, the City Council has moved to reduce density in multiple family residential zones and re-zoned certain areas from multiple family residential use to single family residential use.

Looking to continued orderly development in Upland, the Planning Commission and City Council approved a precise plan for development of a street extending Central Avenue north of Foothill Boulevard and connecting it to the westerly extension of 13th Street. The existence of a defined plan for that street now permits further development in the aircraft industrial and light industrially zoned property north of Foothill Boulevard and west of Benson Avenue. These properties had heretofore been "landlocked" which delayed development.

Throughout the year, studies were underway to provide bus service to Upland citizens. An agreement with the Southern California Rapid Transit District to provide service in Upland and Ontario is approaching. It's expected there will be service instituted early in 1973.

The two remaining privately owned properties in the Civic Center site were purchased by the City during the year. The service stations on the sites are continuing in operation until development of the Civic Center.

Improvements have been installed in certain parts of the City through cooperative ventures of property owners and the City. One such project has been improvement of Chaffee and Bowen Streets in the southeast quadrant of the City with the paving of curbs and gutters, sidewalks and street trees. The improvements aid in controlling storm water, in improving the appearance of the street, in safety of pedestrians, and permit the street to be swept by City street sweepers.

The Metropolitan Water District invaded Upland during the year to place a giant pipe-line through the City - mostly on 18th Street. This pipe-line is part of a system to make Northern California water available in the southland.

Upland, together with other cities in the area, agreed upon a contract for sewage treatment by the Chino Basin Municipal Water District to treat effluent of several municipalities in the plant heretofore owned and operated by Upland and Ontario.

Improvements in the City include resurfacing of 15th Street between Euclid Avenue and Campus Avenue; additional sewer mains extended to serve parts of the City; and additional traffic control devices installed at various locations throughout the City. Along San Antonio Avenue at 13th, 14th and 15th Streets four-way stops were installed upon requests of residents in the area to control vehicular speed; at 13th Street and Mountain Avenue a four-way stop was installed to augment the safety of school children; at 16th Street and Columbine Way, a pedestrian traffic signal was installed for use of the school children; and at Campus Avenue and Arrow Highway, traffic signals were installed to smooth the flow of traffic in that sector of the City. Work has commenced for the widening of Mountain and San Antonio Avenues at their crossings of the Santa Fe tracks to eliminate bottlenecks.

Increased efficiency in fire fighter dispatching was achieved this year through centralizing that function for Upland, Montclair, Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Ontario in one location. Citizens in the West End (except Chino) now have optimum response time of fire units through this one facility which has immediate telephone and radio contact with all fire stations in the several cities and communities.

Upland instituted a program during 1972 to give financial recognition to the educational advancement of its Police Officers. By establishing the program, Upland can attract officers with more education and reward those now on the force who have displayed the initiative to increase their value to the citizens of Upland through continuing study and accomplishment.

SAYS ALTHEA CORRELL

A Little Upland In Australia

"Mildura, Australia is a beautiful green oasis in the middle of a semi-desert," said Althea Correll of Upland, who just returned from a month long tour of the South Pacific. "The trip to Mildura gave us a chance to see Australians as they really live in their homes," she continued.

She described the startling contrast between the lush green horticulture of the many vineyards and citrus groves and the very red earth. "Mildura looks very much as Upland did 30 years ago when it was largely agricultural," she said.

This was the second time a delegation of Uplanders have made an official visit to Mildura, their "sister city." Ms. Correll was also a member of the first group from Upland which made initial contact in 1969. This year the group again shared a Thanksgiving dinner at the Grand Hotel (formerly known as the Chaffey Coffee Palace), as they did on Thanksgiving in 1969. Their dinner was held on Wednesday, Nov. 22 instead of on Thursday, Nov. 23 (Thanksgiving Day), because the Council had to meet and wouldn't be able to attend the event.

Ms. Correll explained that the "idea of Thanksgiving was entirely new to them" and that Mayor Kaye Gambetta was most anxious to know what Thanksgiving Day was and was curious about pilgrim dolls and paper turkeys which the Uplanders had brought to decorate the table. She said that Ms. Gambetta had given the pilgrim dolls and turkeys to the school classes so that the American tradition could be better explained to them. Ms. Correll plans to send Ms. Gambetta a child's book called "The First Thanksgiving."

Ms. Correll made a presentation of a book entitled, "Dynamic Australia," to Upland Mayor Althea Correll and Councilors of Mildura at the last Council meeting. Haldeman said the book on Australia's developing economy would be placed in the Upland Public Library for the public to use. Ms. Correll also played parts of a tape recording from the Mayor and Councilors of Mildura greeting the Upland Councilmen. She said that Ms. Gambetta, whose in her 30's, was the city's first woman councilman and only woman elected mayor. In the true spirit of women's liberation, her husband is her strongest supporter!

Ms. Correll told about a special meeting of the Town Affiliation Association to be held on Jan. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room of the Upland Public Library. The complete tape recording from Mildura will be played and photographs and talks about the trip given. President Harvey Stone will also give a similar presentation about the caravan that traveled to Caberco, Mexico (Upland's other sister city) over Thanksgiving weekend. Ms. Correll said there will also be a presentation of an Australian and Mexican flag.

On one of the three days spent in Mildura the group drove 72 miles through desert to a primitive camp to see teacher Enid Borschmann where 120 high school freshmen were on a special outing for a week. Ms. Borschmann is currently assistant principal and dean of women at the high school. She was in Upland for a reception in her honor on June 26. Ms. Correll also told about a reception given in their honor at "Rio-Vista" - the old Chaffey Homestead and cultural center.

According to Ms. Correll, Upland can expect to have some more Mildura visitors during Easter weekend and in June, Alex Thomson, City Engineer, is expected at Easter and Councilor Michael Jobson and his wife are to visit Upland in June.

Amy DeHaven, 12 years old, of Upland and Louise Wright, also 12, of Mildura, have been pen-pals since the cities became sisters in 1969. Ms. Wright taped a message for Ms. DeHaven and also sent along a present to her faithful penpal.

Mildura Councilor Ken Wright, who was mayor in 1969 when the sister city affiliation was made, expressed disappointment that a scrap book of "Life in Upland" which is being prepared by a sixth grade class at Valencia Elementary School was not ready in time to be presented at the visit.

citizens. We anticipate that it will not be long before two new neighborhood parks are available for use. One is known as Sierra Vista Park at the southeast corner of 15th Street and Second Avenue, and the other is Campus Reservoir Park at the southwest corner of 13th St. and Campus Ave. Both of these parks are being completed on a joint federal-city program. Sierra Vista's park trees were planted last year by the Upland Rotary Club. The new long-awaited Community Building is nearing completion in Magnolia Park on 15th St. near San Antonio Ave. The new building features meeting rooms, kitchen, courtyard, workrooms, and will be ready for occupancy very early in 1973.

Planning for early construction is a shopping center at the southwest corner of Foothill Boulevard and Euclid Avenue, which will bring added convenience to those residing close thereby as well as to passing motorists. The initial segment of the shopping center to be constructed will contain a large market and drug store, each of well-known chains to be augmented by various specialty shops and later expanded with still more facilities.

During 1973, motorists will find Mountain Avenue and San Antonio Avenue easier to traverse as the crossing of the Santa Fe tracks is widened. Euclid Avenue will be widened to three moving lanes from 9th Street to Foothill Boulevard, which will expedite traffic flow on this busy artery. Motorists using Mountain Avenue between 29th and 23rd Streets will be pleased by the repaving planned during 1973. Improved safety for motorists will be afforded by modification of signals on Mountain Avenue at Foothill Boulevard by installation of "left turn" storage lanes on Mountain Avenue. Signalization of the intersection of 19th Street and Euclid Avenue will assist the motorists using those streets. Several streets will be re-surfaced to make for more comfortable driving - Washington Boulevard from 11th Street to Amber Court, and 7th Street from Second Avenue to Campus Avenue. Widening of Arrow Highway along the south side from Euclid to Third Avenue is planned, and a storm drain will be installed to prevent ponding of water on 8th Street west of Euclid Avenue.

Upland should move closer to having a completed Civic Center during 1973. Initial plans for the City Council Chambers and Administration Building are being prepared. Once the project is approved and constructed, persons desiring to conduct business with the City will find it much more convenient. The staff will be housed in one structure as opposed to being scattered throughout five buildings over a two-block area as they now are. The efficiency of operations to be gained from having proper contiguous working space will result in improved cost efficiency and better service to Uplanders.

New Year's Prayer For Our City

LORD, WE PRAY THEE for this, the city of our love and pride. Help us make our community the mighty common workshop of our people, where everyone will find his place and task, in daily achievement building up his own life to resolute manhood, keen to do his best with hand and mind. Bind our citizens in the glow of neighborly goodwill, by the thrill of common joys, and the pride of common possessions. Grant us vision of our city, fair as she may be; a city of justice where none shall prey on others; a city of plenty and one of brotherhood, where all success shall be founded on service, and honor shall be given to nobleness alone; a city of peace, where order shall not rest on force, but on the love of all the city.

'Natural' Vitamins

Your body cannot tell the difference between a "natural" or "synthetic" vitamin. Both have the same chemical properties. Yet, the idea that "natural" vitamins provide special benefits to our bodies is receiving much attention, said University of California Home Advisor Sharon Higgins.

Are "natural" vitamins really what they claim to be? A Berkeley COOP pharmacist recently visited several manufacturers of "natural" vitamins. He reports in the Journal of Nutrition Education that products labeled "natural" or "organic" were not really what he had imagined those terms to indicate.

Low Fat Diet For Sr. Folks

A good nutritional foundation is provided when two servings of meat, two servings of milk, four or more servings of fruits and vegetables, and four or more servings of bread and cereal are eaten each day.

Use skim or lowfat milk, lowfat cheese and other lowfat dairy products. Eggs need to be limited to three per week.

Serve poultry and fish more often and rely less on beef.

Dairy Forum Searches For More Milk Uses

The gentle dairy cow does much more for you and me than give milk. While milk certainly is important, the products from milk can be equally exciting and of great value. Yogurt, ice cream and cultured dairy foods such as sour cream and buttermilk, are just a few we already know about.

Milk can hold up amazingly well today despite being mistreated temperature-wise. (It should be kept under 40 degrees in stores or in the home and not be allowed to sit out for long periods.)

Other research is also going on in the area of quality control to assure that products won't vary from one batch to the next.

And food manufacturers are being taught the principles of good quality control so that variations in quality can be kept to a minimum.

With a vast education and research effort by universities along with food companies and governmental agencies, the simple first product of the cow—milk—can be turned into a multitude of foods exciting to eat and yet safe and nutritious.

Punk Rock: The Arrogant Underbelly Of Sixties Pop

I never thought I'd see the day when anybody'd take this music seriously. Not that "serious" is the word for Lenny Kaye's approach to the project, but the very fact that some of these songs turned up on an LP at all, let alone with liner notes, is something I never expected. I missed out on mid-Sixties punk culture myself—I had many chances to see groups like the Seeds, Standells, and Count Five, but there was always some Grateful Dead concert or trips festival or something I deemed more important. Nowdays it seems that the real vitality of American rock in the years 1964-8 was tied up to a far greater extent than has ever been recognized, with the ephemeral local bands who rarely say their names on an album of any sort. Even today some of the best rock comes out on obscure singles, but in those years there was a difference, a whole culture of teen dances, local scenes and record companies by the thousand, and a longvanished freedom in radio programming that promised the chance of at least a local hit if you put out your best crowdpleaser, which every Battle of the Bands semi-finalist inevitably did.

Punk-rock is a fascinating genre: Getting into it requires endless hours at flea markets and junk stores, but when the reward is some apex of vinyl mania like "Voices Green and Purple" by the Bees (Liverpool 62225) you don't complain. Punk-rock at its best is the closest we came in the Sixties to the original rockabilly spirit of rock and roll. Rockabilly itself is a shamefully overlooked genre, the best records of which are totally unknown. It attracted a special breed of crazy wildmen, guys like Charlie Feathers or Billy Lee Riley, who could walk off the street into a studio and sing something like "Flying Saucers Rock and Roll," or Sonny Burgess with lyrics like "I got a woman, she climbs trees," while guitars and pianos are pounding and stomping like nothing you ever heard.

As Lenny Kaye's liner notes point out, the mid-Sixties saw the influx of new styles and the opportunity for experimentation in rock at a time when a new generation was looking for ways to express itself -- much like the situation in 1955.

The stage was set in the early Sixties with millions of local bands playing lame instrumentals after the Ventures, or in England, the Shadows. The Beatles came along and swept all that off the boards with their revival of the energetic vitality of the mid-Fifties, and it suddenly seemed all these groups were competing to see who could sound most aggressive.

Punk-rock didn't produce many big hits, because it was too primitively undisciplined for most PDs and a lot of kids too. But each region had its local heroes, like the Astronauts in Denver and the Kingsmen in the Northwest, who proved the market could be cracked and provided inspiration for literally hundreds of imitators who flourished through 1965 and in a very real sense dominated the American rock scene in 1966, the year of their heyday.

Many of them survived 1967 as hordes of overnight studio groups turned out bizarre special-effects records for the record industry's short-lived fantasy of what the psychedelic movement was about. But punk-rock—defined rather strictly by fuzztone, Fender or Standell amps, Vox organs, the limits of a year's worth of guitar lessons, and that certain tone of aggro in the vocals—had gone the way of the dinosaur.

While it's important and fairly easy to divide Sixties rock into various stylistic categories, Lenny Kaye's choice of songs in "Nuggets," based on his own criteria of listenability and only roughly grounded in punk, is a successful mixture. His original concept was to tackle the thing by regions, in a series of eight or so albums designed to capture the most distinctive local scenes in their hits and obscurities as well. Elektra didn't feel that idea had enough commercial potential, so in narrowing it down to two discs Lenny had to leave out a lot of vital stuff. The list was further shortened when certain classics, such as "Talk Talk" by the Music Machine, proved unfeasible. The resultant album, while far from definitive by any standard, is at least thoroughly listenable and a well-diversified introduction to the underbelly of Sixties rock.

You're gonna have your quarrels with the selections, as do I. "Moult" by the Barbarians is a true classic, but it pales rapidly after a few plays and eventually drags down side two. "Are You a Boy or Are You a Girl," while an obvious choice, would've been better. "Let's Talk About Girls" by the Chocolate Watchband is a delightful track, but hardly up to either of their cuts on their Riot on Sunset Strip album, the title song of which is as deserving of revival as the Standells number that was included, a Big disappointment is the inclusion of "Oh Yeah" by the Shadows of Knight. I can think of a dozen better cuts by them, and while we're in Chicago I'd think "I Call My Baby S.T.P." by the Del-Vetts would be more fun to hear than the Cryan Shames song on side three. "Baby Please Don't Go" by the Amboy Dukes is much too weak to justify its length, and although Lenny says this was used by mistake instead of the edited single, I think Kenny & the Kasuals' version would have been a much sharper choice in any case. And finally, "My World Fell Down" by Sagittarius captures Gary Usher's school of 1969 choral pop well enough, but there are a hundred better examples and the whole idiom was pretty lame anyway, if you ask me. --Greg Shaw

Upland Is Routed By Determined Pasadena Team

TRYING HARD -- Upland's Stu Duvall tries to sink shot while Pasadena's Ralph Griffen causes opposition. Pasadena badly defeated Upland at the San Dimas Tournament of Champions.

Morningside High School took the San Dimas High Tournament of Champions' first place trophy Saturday afternoon with a 62-53 win over Verbum Dei. The win takes out some of the sting of a quarter final loss to Verbum Dei in last year's CIF playoffs. The Monarchs lost that meeting in overtime to the eventual champs 64-3.

The leading scorer for the Monarchs was high school All American Jackie Robinson with 22 points. Guard Michael Ingram with 19 points was considered the big factor in Morningside's late minute rally, according to coach Harrick.

One of the biggest stories out of the championship game was the shutting off of Verbum Dei's superstar center Lewis Brown by a fired-up Morningside defense. The Monarchs keyed on Brown most of the game, triple teaming the tall center all evening. Brown only managed 17 points, far off his personal pace, and was in foul trouble much of the game. Brown eventually fouled out late in the fourth quarter.

Local teams provided a major disappointment for Pomona Valley fans. Damien and San Dimas were eliminated from the tournament early, while Upland was routed in consolation play by Pasadena, 99-51 Friday night.

There also arose the question of San Joaquin Memorial as a team. The Northern Section champions certainly boast one of the nation's best high school players in Cliff Pondexter, the tournament's Most Valuable Player. The problem is Pondexter's support. Pondexter began slow Friday night, Joaquin was down to Murphy so badly that a second half rally failed to catch the Nobles.

Murphy, last year's 2-A champion, impressed many during the tournament. Not only did the Nobles upset Pasadena in the first round, they played Morningside closely in the semi-finals before losing, and upset San Joaquin Memorial.

Former FB Player Remembers Chaffey

A South African rancher missed a Chaffey College homecoming for the football team of 1921 a year ago, but the invitation from his alma mater paid off anyway.

The response came in the form of a check for $127.42 from former Uplander Alec Cordes just in time for Christmas a year later. Cordes, a citrus and papaya grower in the Transvaal, mailed his donation to the college to Chaffey director emeritus Charles J. Booth, a prime mover in putting the homecoming together. Booth lives in Claremont.

The check arrived also in time to brighten Booth's eighty-eighth birthday Dec. 18. He explained that when this transplanted rancher played football for the college, 50 years ago, Chaffey's emphasis was on agriculture.

The Alcoa Foundation, headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pa., remembered Chaffey this Yuletide, too, with a contribution of $300 in the name of Daryl E. Evans, a freshman from Corona. His father, Fred Evans, is an Alcoa employee.

Both Christmas gifts were assigned to the Chaffey Memorial Fund, bringing its assets to $55,545.81. The fund is a source of scholarships and loans for students at the school.

Ms. Rose is a member of the California Attorney General's Legislative Council and the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Advisory Council.

She served on the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, a bipartisan group formed by President Harry S. Truman to investigate ways to reorganize the Executive Branch of the government.

THE ARTS

Piano Duo Set, Jan. 12

One of the most unusual concert programs will be featured Friday, Jan. 12, when the Mt. San Antonio College Community Services presents duo-pianists Frances and Richard Hadden in "Duo-Logues." The performance will open at 8 p.m. in the Social Science Center Lecture Hall.

"From Bach to Rock and Back" presents "... a thoroughly unorthodox program ...," challenging audiences to hear familiar music in a new context and unfamiliar music with a sense of recognition. Bach, Handel, Mozart and Schubert find themselves next to the folk music of Spain, Russia, Jamaica and America, and mingled with Cole Porter, Benny Goodman and George Shearing.

Traveling across the nation of their current concert tour, the husband and wife team are initiating their brand new LTD motor home which houses not only Frances and Richard but their two recently developed model SF-10 Baldwin Grand Finances!

The Haddens begin this new six-week concert series Christmas Day. Their program at MSAC will feature Mrs. Hadden's "Lu Shan Suite," premiered this Fall in Peking before Mrs. Chou En-Lai. The Suite is dedicated to the Chinese people and Mrs. Hadden's birthplace in Kiangsi province.

The first Americans to perform in China in concert since the Communist Government rose to power in 1949, the Haddens presented their program to a warmly enthusiastic audience in the Central Broadcasting Concert Hall in Peking on Oct. 3. "We found the audience reaction one of great openness to everything we played," Hadden told a New York Times reporter following the concert.

"We went to China at the personal invitation of Premier Chou En-Lai," Mrs. Hadden said. "He was a friend of my family and used to visit us. When I left China in 1938 he came to my farewell concert."

Mrs. Hadden is probably the only western pianist to have played for both the Chiang Kai-Sheks and the Chou En-Lais. The program to be presented in the MSAC concert is a recreation of the Peking concert, presenting Handel's "Overture," from the masque Acts and Galatea, Porter's "Begin the Beguine," Saint-Saens' "The Swan," Bach's "Chorale Prelude - In Dir ist Freude," and their own composition, "Arch Rock," among other works in the two-hour event.

Both Haddens have extensive musical backgrounds. Frances was a long-time student of the eminent French pianist E. Robert Schmitz, is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Mount Holyoke, and holds a master's in music from the University of Michigan. Richard studied under Maxwell MacMichael and George Vause, accompanist for Madame Matzenauer. He holds degrees from Rutgers, Princeton, and Michigan.

They first met while at Princeton, became engaged in England, and married just over 25 years ago in Switzerland. Called "true people-to-people ambassadors" by a State Department Cultural Affairs officer in Asia, the Haddens have spent most of their adult lives concertizing abroad. They have lived in some 25 countries and can count at least 14 heads of states and prime ministers among their listeners. For the past six successive years they have been honored by ASCAP with special awards "... in recognition for music which has strengthened America's image abroad and brought prestige to the Society."

Composers of great talent, the Haddens have done scores for films and stage, a Broadway musical, many choral and instrumental works, a recently published Chinese Christmas cradle song, an award winning football song for Rutgers, the Lu Shan Suite, and the Arch Rocks.

Reservations for their concert may be made by writing MSAC Community Services, 1100 N. Grand Ave., Walnut, 91789. Tickets are only 50 cents per person. Checks should be made payable to Mt. San Antonio College. Reservation tickets will be sent by return mail. Depending on advanced sales, tickets will also be available at the door the evening of the concert.

'Changing Pictures' On Display In Claremont

Paintings that change every few seconds are on display in the new Libra Gallery of the Claremont Graduate School art department.

Doug Gilchrist, 25, a student working toward a master of fine arts degree at CGS, is the artist. He has devised what he calls a sight and sound experience in the gallery.

Four of his 8-foot to 12-foot works are geometric designs painted in brilliant colors. Some of the paint is fluorescent and some is nonfluorescent. Blacklight and white spotlights shine on the paintings. The spots brighten and fade, controlled by

REFLECTIONS...

On Instant History For A Nonwar

I see by a review—which is as close to the book as I'm planning to get—that David Halberstam, who once angered President Kennedy by summing things up before they had a real chance to happen, is now doing his forecast-hindsight thing with regard to Robert McNamara, McGeorge Bundy, Walt Rostow, and others who advised, at various times and in varying degree, that the United States take action in South Vietnam. Since the long-term interest of the United States was the chief consideration in such decisions, some readers may wonder whether a short-term view is really relevant (in the old, or noncommercial, sense of that word). History, like yogurt, isn't the same without the intervention of time.

But wotthehell, Mehitabel—if we are going to play instant history, why should I let Mr. Halberstam have the field to himself? After all, all it takes is the protection of the Sullivan decision by the Supreme Court, and maybe some chutzpah. So

I offer boldly, herewith, my own exercise—a summary of what would have been written by Halberstam et al. if Lyndon Johnson had remained aloof from the troubles of South Vietnam.

Visual Aids

Since time is now a function of the media, let's set it for this scenario in those terms: We begin when Time magazine was showing photos of South Vietnamese villagers butchered by Viet Cong, who favor such visual aids in educating the populace about the wave of the future. That would be before Ramparts published Che Guevara's diary, with its homey little notes about needing a few more touches of terror to bring the Bolivian villagers around; but if Che's admirers still didn't know where he stood on that sort of thing, some folks in Washington did.

So there's LBJ turning a deaf ear, see (not to say, ignoring our treaty obligation to South Vietnam). What follows then is:

Item—A column by Tom Wick-er, explaining that it's LBJ's Texas racism that makes him reject a cry for help by little brown men, and reminding us that the United States scurried to the aid of largely-WASP Eng-land in 1940.

Item—A piece by David Halberstam in Harper's, revealing that LBJ's decision not to intervene was a result of his seduction by the military, who learned at West Point decades ago that it was folly to get into a land war so far away and who haven't the imagination to change with changing times or the heart to override rote caution.

Money and Flag

Item in tres partes—

(a) A panel of Harvard experts, appearing on public TV, produce the tiny figures representing U.S. trade with South Vietnam and assure each other that where we haven't got any more money than that invested, we won't fight.

(b) A column by Mary McGrory excoriates a soulless nation that won't raise a finger to protect the innocent just because there aren't enough dollar interests to protect.

(c) SDS at Harvard, Berkeley, and Columbia demands (non-negotiable) the overthrow of capitalism, which dehumanizes us so we won't raise a finger, etc. (see above).

Item—A network White Paper accuses Washington of representing its freedom to show us the very pictures of Viet Cong terrorism that it is now bravely bringing us anyway; it ends with a voice-over of President Kennedy in the part of his inaugural speech that said, "We will bear any burden," etc.

Item—One of the soberer columnists (brighter than David Halberstam) coins the term "Plush Curtain" for the comfortable United States' refusal to note what's going on in a little country far away—which, like Bangladesh and Biafra (I know, but he's a prescient columnist, see?), wanted to set up in the nation business by itself.

Item—Sen. Edward Kennedy reminds newsmen on Meet the Press that there are 40,000 North Vietnamese troops in Laos, left there in violation of the agreement President Kennedy signed, and under which he withdrew our troops. It can't be right, he says, for us to countenance bland hypocrisies like Hanoi's assurance that they have no soldiers where everybody knows they have.

Item—Some people in the Government write soul-searching memos pointing out that Saigon doesn't smell like roses and war is bad, but a policy of terrorism, i.e., the planned slaughter of A for the effect on B, is so coldhearted and dirty that it makes first-degree murder seem warm and respectable. These memos are placed in a file classified Secret. The first newspaper to fence the file quotes its headline a "U.S. planner" who describes "murder" as "warm and respectable."

ROSEY -- The "King" and Rose Parade Float entered in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade Jan. 1, 1973 by Kodak, recalls the memorable film, "Anna and the King of Siam." Yul Brynner starred in the musical version and is presently seen on television in "Anna and the King." When the float passes in review New Year's day, America's Junior Miss, Lydia Hodson, 18, of Lexington, Kentucky, will be aboard as Anna.

'Anna And The King'

Rose Parade Float Recalls An Era That Was

The colorful pageantry of Siam in the 1860's will be recreated January 1 as Eastman Kodak Company salutes movie memories in the Tournament of Roses with a float based on the film classic, "Anna and the King of Siam."

The 55 by 16 foot float -- decorated with nearly a million flowers -- portrays the first meeting of the enlightened Siamese monarch and Anna, the English governess. America's Junior Miss, 18-year-old Lydia Hodson of Lexington, Ky., will appear as Anna.

Two large coronation barges with moving oars carry Anna and the king plus a retinue of ornately costumed dancers, courtiers and helmsmen. Constructed of papier-mache, this part of the float is decorated with a variety of exotic blossoms.

The barges pass under a gracefully arched bridge with sculptural motifs, yellow and gold mums and yellow glad petals. A solid blanket of red roses paves the walkway.

Thirteen-foot-tall guardian figures stand at each end of the bridge, and yellow pagoda roofs rise over the entryways. The mosaic surface of the original statues is reproduced meticulously with flower petals of many hues and shades.

The 1973 float is Kodak's eighth entry in Tournament of Roses parades. Two have won awards; the Grand Prize in 1967 and the Princess Award 1971 for best animated float.

LOOKING BACK -- Movie Memories are recalled in this float rendering of "Anna and the King of Siam" displayed by television stars Samantha Eggar and Yul Brynner appearing in "Anna and the King." Float, entered by Kodak in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade

New Year's day, features royal barges passing beneath a flower-covered bridge protected by gigantic palace guards. America's Junior Miss, Lydia Hodson, 18, of Lexington, Kentucky, will portray Anna, the English school teacher who taught the King's many children.

Physics Also 'Elementary'

In "The Adventure of the Dancing Men," Sherlock Holmes deciphered a complex series of messages by using the process of elimination and a decoding method based on the statistical frequency of certain letters. Dr. Watson professed amazement -- but it was, after all, elementary.

In the realm of high-energy physics, scientists use similar methods to detect the complex interactions of subatomic particles themselves, because there are too many of them, are no longer "elementary." With an array of subatomic objects that now numbers over 90, physicists arrange the known statistical properties of particles in a variety of patterns in the hope that these will provide clues to an underlying symmetrical order.

Since these tiny fragments of material reality cannot be detected directly, nuclear sleuths track the footprints of their elusive quarry across the strange turf of the bubble chamber. And when your average layman remarks casually of a Sunday morning, "Well, I see they've discovered a new sigma particle," what he means to say is that a bubble-chamber photograph has recorded the curving path of a passing particle that matches no path previously seen. Behind every new nuclear discovery there lies tens of thousands of hours of patient laboratory spade-work in the analysis of hundreds of thousands of photographs.

In the past few years, a device that greatly speeds the analysis of bubble-chamber tracks has been conceived, developed, and built in the Laboratory for Nuclear Science at MIT by a research group under the direction of Irwin Pless, professor of physics and director of the Accelerator Physics Collaboration. Called PEPR (for Precision Encoding and Pattern Recognition), the device consists of a cathode ray tube, a lens, and a photomultiplier controlled by a specially designed and programmed computer which automatically analyzes the special film used in bubble-chamber experiments. It follows the bubble tracks of events of interest while ignoring others, and measures the particles' paths to an accuracy of one micron. This degree of precision is comparable to that of the finest machine screws; one micron is one-fiftieth the thickness of a hair. PEPR increases nuclear data output by a factor of about 60, measuring some 200 events per hour as opposed to the 3 to 4 event-per-hour rate of manual interpretation. "Both speed and accuracy are important," Dr. Pless points out, "because the situation in physics today is one of almost discouraging richness. A good deal of the prospecting work is now done, and what one wants is tremendous amounts of data on the properties of known particle-states, the varieties of decay-modes, interactions, and so forth. A high-energy experiment will typically produce 200 to 300 thousand reactions and the big accelerators are now generating better than four million photographs a year. Some 16,000 events was a good year's work for a highly trained analyst; 160,000 events -- by no means untypical of a number one would want to search through for a series of complex interactions -- would take 10 man-years by the old methods of manual measurement. It's a very precise work because particle identification depends on close correlation of four measurements -- angular momentum in three dimensions, and energy."

Campaign Is Anti Cigs

Whether you smoke or not is no longer, strictly speaking, entirely your own affair.

The health risks of heavy cigarette smoking -- that is, a pack a day or more -- have been widely publicized. Almost everyone knows that the nicotine habit increases the dangers of lung cancer, heart disease, stroke, bronchitis, emphysema, and other less threatening but nonetheless disabling chronic diseases.

The campaign against smoking has reduced the consumption of cigarettes somewhat, but the reduction has been much less dramatic than health leaders would have liked. Too many smokers respond by saying either, "I am so young that it will be a long time before this catches up with me," or "I've been smoking all my life; there is no point to quitting now."

There is now evidence that tobacco and tobacco smoke cause problems of health and comfort not only to the smoker but also to the adjacent non-smoker. The smoke-filled room -- all too common an environment for social gatherings and business conferences -- can be troublesome to the innocent bystander, causing a range of distressing allergic-type reactions, such as asthma, dermatitis, migraine headache, and upset stomach. Children whose homes are filled with cigarette smoke seem to be predisposed to respiratory illness. Small wonder, then, that in self-defense non-smokers are now aggressively exerting pressure against smoking in their presence.

Women, until recently, were not the primary target of anti-smoking efforts, since they have traditionally smoked less than men and inhaled less frequently. But more than 30 percent of the women in the country are smokers, and young girls -- as early as age 12 -- are starting to be heavy smokers. Women can no longer consider themselves immune from the warnings or statistics about lung cancer, stroke, and heart disease.

Many doctors instruct their patients not to smoke during pregnancy, since there is some evidence that the mother's smoking impairs the development of the fetus. Babies born to mothers who smoke heavily during pregnancy tend to have lower birth weights than those whose mothers did not smoke.

What about the people who say they can't stop smoking? There seems to be no evidence that anyone is physiologically "hooked" on nicotine, in the sense that people are addicted to drugs. Some smokers have physical responses to discontinuing smoking which approximate the withdrawal symptoms of the narcotics addict.

Old Drama Is Acted

The Pomona College theater arts department will present George Farquhar's "The Recruiting Officer" at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 12 and 13, and Friday through Sunday, Jan. 18-20, in Garrison Theater, Tenth St. and Dartmouth Ave.

The play, which is the college's third production this year, is a lively, robust restoration comedy which deals with the recruiting of Queen Anne's army in the War of the Spanish Succession.

The show is under the direction of Ms. Reba Thomas, instructor of theater arts, who joined the faculty this semester. David Flaten, instructor in theater arts and technical director, who created the set for last season's "Caucasian Chalk Circle," is set designer.

Tickets are $2.50 for general admission and $1 for students, and may be purchased in advance at Bridges Auditorium box office on the campus of The Claremont Colleges, or at Garrison Theater on the night of the performance. Reservations may be obtained by calling 714, 626-4523, or 714, 626-8511, ext. 3181.

Adventures In Living: The Big Pumpkin

Some scientists are planning to "grow" human babies in test tubes. They must be more concerned with the possibility of creating some new scientific marvel than they are interested in what that marvel will do to the human race. Some of the marvels are very beneficial indeed. For example, our Big Pumpkin was a real triumph!

Even going to the moon once had its detractors. Ten years ago there was a fundamentalist religious man in our town who came to me for some help in writing a newspaper article. "I have studied the scriptures from end to end," he informed me. "There is a lot of talk in our newspapers about man going to the moon. I can prove from the Holy Bible that man cannot go to the moon!"

I did not help the gentleman. Rather, I told him I did believe that man would go to the moon, sooner or later.

Men have gone to the moon and that fundamentalist gentleman has been upset ever since.

Someone will breed babies in test tubes. But to what purpose? Will the test tube babies, once they are born, be sterile, will their breeding be predictable? Will they be hybrid, like a mule, or stunted like a worker bee?

Will the test-tube descendants be unpredictable, like our Big Pumpkin was? Now, that Big Pumpkin was indeed a triumph of the art of breeding. That pumpkin weighed 147 pounds, and it was the smallest of ten from one single hill of pumpkin vines. Our barber showed the pumpkin (now called a 'punkin') in his shop window. Passersby looked at the pumpkin and couldn't believe their eyes. It was on display for nearly a month, then the barber had a 'punkin' cutting."

People from all around came in for some of the punkin meat, and for a dozen seeds. All the barber asked was that the flesh of the pumpkin be used and for certain everyone was very anxious to make pies and pumpkin butter from the flesh of that beautiful pumpkin.

We had a conference and decided that the pumpkin would average one pie to each pound of weight . . . you know, all the milk, cream, sugar and other stuff which goes into a pie? Well, then, one pumpkin made 147 pies!

And the seeds, they numbered in the thousands. No one counted them. The barber put them in small lots and passed them out to people who were anxious to grow big pumpkins the next year.

My ten seeds were planted, and did not even grow into vines. One man reported a few smallish pumpkins. That big pumpkin had no little pumpkins. It was a hybrid, scientifically bred, but not able to pass on its full powers.

Why allow anyone to test-breed babies? Once grown they will sue their makers for artificially bringing them into a world when they did not ask to be born! They will ask for tens of millions of dollars for not having had a nice warm Mama to kick. They will leave untold lawsuits for our grandchildren to settle.

New Lecture Series Withdrawal From Life

"When withdrawal becomes a way of life it is terrifying," observes Dr. Carl A. Faber, psychologist and lecturer at UCLA. "One feels chronically depressed, impotent, powerless, isolated and often hopeless."

The positive and negative values of psychological withdrawal will be examined by Dr. Faber in a special UCLA Extension lecture series, "Withdrawal," that begins Jan. 8 from 8-10 p.m. on nine Mondays in Dickson Art Center at UCLA.

The class will probe situations that create distress in people who use withdrawal as a means to protect themselves. Long before the advent of industrialization people were withdrawing in different ways from the innumerable pressures of society. This was clearly exemplified by Simeon Stylites, who in A.D. 459 secluded himself on top of a pillar in the desert. Thereafter the term Stylite, or pillar saint, was applied to those ascetics who insisted on following Simeon's persuasion.

Everyone experiences different amounts of stress at different times in life and the form and quality of adjustment differ accordingly.
